

Coronavirus Panic Is Going Viral-Steps to Take to Protect Your Workplace

By: Tanya Salgado and Nancy Conrad

The Legal Intelligencer

3.9.20

The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) has caused global economic disruptions and public reactions due to outbreaks of the virus, which causes mild to severe respiratory illness. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has reported that new cases are being confirmed within the United States, with community transmission of the virus now occurring. The CDC reports that the virus is not currently spreading widely in the United States, but the situation is rapidly evolving.

Tanya Salgado and Nancy Conrad discuss the steps employers should now take to ensure that their workplace is adequately prepared and protected in the event of an outbreak of COVID-19 within the communities where they conduct operation in their recent article "Coronavirus Panic Is Going Viral-Steps to Take to Protect Your Workplace."

This correspondence should not be construed as legal advice or legal opinion on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general informational purposes only and you are urged to consult a lawyer concerning your own situation and legal questions.