

From Freeze to Flow: Investigating and Subrogating Winter Water Damage Claims

Matt Ferrie, William Doerler
NASP Subrogator Digest
Winter 2024
12.18.24

As winter comes upon us, adjusters will see claims based on sprinklers or waterlines freezing. While at first these losses may appear to be related to an Act of God, there is often negligence associated with these claims. This negligence allows adjusters and/or any involved subrogation professionals to investigate whether the claims, in fact, have subrogation potential.

This publication is available in full on the National Association of Subrogation Professionals website.

To learn more or subscribe, click here.

This correspondence should not be construed as legal advice or legal opinion on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general informational purposes only and you are urged to consult a lawyer concerning your own situation and legal questions.