OVERVIEW

Drew is an Associate in the Business Department and a member of the firm's Real Estate and Finance Practice Group.

Drew focuses his practice on representing institutional lenders, financial institutions, private commercial lenders, and insurance companies on a wide range of real estate lending transactions involving virtually every type of real estate asset. Drew is experienced in all facets of real estate lending, advising on lending issues, and drafting and negotiating documents for loans originated to be held on the balance sheet, to be sold in the commercial mortgage-backed securities market or to be syndicated (ranging from small facilities with a few lenders to large facilities with many lenders).

Drew has significant experience handling transactions involving fixed-rate, construction, bridge, floating-rate, and mezzanine loan transactions secured by all asset classes, including office, retail, hotel, multifamily, student housing, and industrial properties located throughout the United States. Drew has also advised lenders regarding workouts and restructuring of defaulted and non-performing loans.

Prior to joining the firm, Drew has held previous roles at national law firms in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.
