

Workers' Compensation Subrogation Federal Civil Practice – Tips and Real Case Study

National Association of Subrogation Professionals, Annual Conference
(Washington, DC)
10.28.19

By way of a recent "real world" federal case, turning on the threshold issue of a subro carrier's right to reimbursement rights, absent an injured worker's participation, you will learn of the challenges and advantages of litigating in federal court. The issue was decided in favor of one side, resolved, followed shortly by a state supreme court decision on the issue favoring the losing side.

Brett Tishler, will co-present the principals of this drama, including the presiding federal judge, provide insights of how the case progressed, resolved, and the surprising contrary decision by the State Supreme Court, as well as general tips at the National Association of Subrogation Professionals (NASP) Annual Conference.
