

The Shield Surrounding Online Retailers - The Last 12 Months

Webinar | The National Association of Subrogation Professionals
9.14.21

More than ever in history, consumers are purchasing products from Amazon and many of these products come from third-party sellers. Amazon's involvement in the sale raises the question of whether it can be held liable for products liability claims. While Amazon argues that it bears no liability because it is merely an online marketplace, Amazon's argument has met with mixed success.

In this webinar, Christopher Konzelmann will explore how products are sold on Amazon and defenses Amazon raises. The webinar will also provide an update on the cases decided either for or against Amazon, with a particular emphasis on cases decided over the last year.
