

Subrogation Department Settles a Multi-Leak Water Damage Case

Christopher Konzelmann, a partner in the subrogation department, recently pursued an HVAC contractor and its subcontractor to recover an insurer's subrogated damages in a case involving multiple water leaks in a New York, mixed-use building under construction. The case involved leaks purportedly caused by the improper installation and soldering of piping. Chris, assisted by William Doerler, counsel in the subrogation department, settled the subrogation claim in the high six figures.