Chambers has released their 2023 USA guide and ranked White and Williams as a leader among national law firms. The firm was recognized for recent achievements in Real Estate Finance and Insurance in Pennsylvania, and Construction in Maryland. "We are very pleased to have some of our most talented attorneys recognized again by Chambers", said Andrew Susko, the Firm's Managing Partner.

In addition, to practice area recognition, nine lawyers were recognized and ranked highly in the 2023 Chambers USA guide from Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. In Philadelphia, Timothy E. Davis, Partner and Chair of the Business Department, and Nancy Sabol Frantz, Partner and Chair of the Real Estate and Finance practice were recognized for their achievements in Real Estate: Finance; and, Steven Coury, Partner, was ranked among the top Real Estate professionals in Connecticut.

"I have worked with associates and partners throughout the firm, and I am impressed with every member of the team", said one review about White and Williams' successful real estate practice. Davis was praised by Chambers for his experience in various areas of real estate financial matters, and for simply being "a fantastic lawyer", one review said. Frantz was also recognized for her creative and logical approach to client engagements.

David D. Gilliss, Managing Partner of the Maryland office, and his Maryland colleague, Patrick Pike, were both recognized for their excellence in the field of Construction Law. Both attorneys were praised for their experience in dealing with complex construction matters.

In Pennsylvania, the Insurance practice was ranked by Chambers, offering special recognition to Randy J. Maniloff, Counsel, for his wide range of knowledge on insurance matters. Patricia B. Santelle, Chair Emeritus, and Former Managing Partner, was cited for her "decades of invaluable experience litigating complex insurance coverage cases", as one review reported.

"White and Williams is a well-oiled machine when it comes to litigating complex, multiparty insurance coverage actions," said the Chambers review about the firm's exceptional insurance practice group.
