

Administrative Hearings

Zetlin & De Chiara represents construction professionals in administrative hearings throughout the country. Zetlin & De Chiara has had particular success in representing architects, engineers and land surveyors in administrative hearings brought by licensing boards in numerous jurisdictions. Our depth of knowledge of the construction industry and the licensing schemes of various states enables us to provide unparalleled counseling in this regard. We also represent clients in local administrative hearings such as before the New York City Department of Buildings, the New York City Fire Department, and the Office of Administrative Trials & Hearings (OATH).

Zetlin & De Chiara has also represented design build contractors in administrative proceedings before the Department of Labor.
