

Business Advice

Zetlin & De Chiara provides business advice to members of the construction community including owners, developers, contractors as well as design professionals. Closely held and emerging businesses face a number of unique challenges, from start-up to succession planning. Zetlin & De Chiara's attorneys have a deep understanding of the needs of business owners, entrepreneurs and family-owned companies, and decades of lead-counsel experience helping clients navigate the range of legal issues such businesses typically encounter. In addition, to meet the pressing business and operational needs presented by COVID-19, the firm has joined forces with seven other firms to form Workwell.

Zetlin & De Chiara is deeply experienced and heavily involved in advising early stage clients for both companies and investors, allowing us to recognize trending issues and solutions on either side. We also maintain many close, longstanding relationships with parties on both sides, allowing us to make key introductions for our clients.

Zetlin & De Chiara advises members of the construction community on the numerous challenges presented by the fast-moving COVID-19 crisis. From re-opening projects and businesses to resolving disputes over construction delays, we have helped business leaders to assess risk, get projects back on track and develop plans to protect employees and subcontractors. As part of our efforts to provide clients with comprehensive COVID-19 services and advice, Zetlin & De Chiara has joined forces with seven other firms to form Workwell.
