

Mixed-Use Building Litigation

We successfully represented the owner and developer of a high-profile luxury, mixed-use building in a lengthy arbitration. The construction manager breached its contract and the duty of good faith and fair dealing, causing the owner to incur millions of dollars in damages to complete the construction. The contractor asserted claims against the owner for alleged unpaid work and alleged unpaid change orders. We successfully obtained dismissal of all claims against our client and secured a multi-million dollar award in their favor.
