

Jaimee Nardiello Authors Chapter in ABA's Definitive Guide to Federal Government Construction Contracts

NEW YORK (October 23, 2017) – Zetlin & De Chiara LLP, a leading national construction law firm, applauds partner Jaimee Nardiello upon the release of Federal Government Construction Contracts, Third Edition, published by the American Bar Association. The book is an updated guide for nongovernment contract practitioners through the innumerable and sometimes confusing federal government contract regulations, clauses and case law. Ms. Nardiello authored the fourth chapter, entitled "Architect-Engineer Contracting."

Ms. Nardiello's chapter focuses on the complexities of architect-engineer (A-E) contracting, covering the A-E selection process; issues particular to A-E contracts; guidelines for the government cost estimate; construction phase services; government claims against the design professional; cost recovery programs; and more.

Jaimee Nardiello is a Partner at Zetlin & De Chiara, where she works to protect the rights of design professionals, contractors, owners and other members of the industry in litigation. Ms. Nardiello focuses her practice on disputes involving construction, contracts, and environmental/energy laws. Additionally, she negotiates contracts in transactions for high-profile construction projects. Ms. Nardiello advocates for design professionals in complex intellectual property disputes.
